THE DESIGNER

Svein Asbjørnsen is a very creative furniture designer. Through his strong innovative and technical talents he has created long lasting furniture concepts for the international markets – within home, office and even transportation and health treatment designs. All with his stringent demands on visual design and ergonomics.

All ideas have been further developed, constructed and built - from sketches to ready functional models - with his colleagues in SapDesign AS.

Svein Asbjørnsen have received several awards for his designs including Eight Prizes for “Design Excellence”, “Best in Show - and Gold Award” at NEOCON, Chicago, “Certificate of Excellence” at SIDIM; Le Salon International du Design at Montreal, “Award for Intelligent Material & Design” at the Interzum Technical Furniture Fair in Cologne, Germany.

VAD

VAD is a Norwegian furniture producer that has evolved from hand work traditions on the West coast of Norway five generations ago. When production started in the 1870s, it was based on household items like spinning wheels, looms and many other useful items. Several of these products got prizes for outstanding quality and design.

In 1968, Oddmund Vad, changed the focus from hand craft into the modern furniture products. For the time to come, several groundbreaking furniture models was brought to market, including some of his personal designs, like the lounge chair Convair.

The passion and dreams for the furniture industry has prevailed in the family business. In 2005 his son, Håkon Vad, started to work to bring new Norwegian furniture designs to the market.

With a keen eye on design, high quality and sustainability, the products shall differ in function, form, comfort and other important aspects according to the needs and requirements of the users. Five generations of passionate craftsmanship shall provide a difference for our customers and society.
